Michigan Votes On Many Issues

By JIM NICHOLS
Associated Press Writer

Michigan's 3.3 million registered voters had the opportunity today to help nominate congressmen, legislators, judges and local officials and to pass on the first three proposed amendments to the State Constitution.

There was a new office on the ballot—judge of the newly created district court—but the absence of several top traditional races threatened to lower voter interest and perhaps lead to a light vote.

Elections officials in several cities predicted average or below-average turnout. The weatherman warned of possible thundershowers this afternoon and evening in Upper and northern Lower Michigan.

Candidates who survived today's primary remained eligible for the offices they sought in the Nov. 5 general election.

It was the first full primary election since Michigan became a state in 1837 which did not feature races for governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, attorney general and state senator.

Terms of those officers were increased from two years to four by the new constitution and those incumbents do not face re-election until 1970.

The absence of the traditionally stirring race for governor was expected by some to cause a lag in voter concern over the election.

On the county level, it was the first election held in Michigan under the mandatory one-man, one-vote formula for county supervisor districts, a concept ordered by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Florida Trains Hit Head-On; 125 Injured

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (AP) — A Seaboard Coast Line spokesman says the head-on crash of two Silver Meteor passenger trains Monday could have been due to "a faulty switch or a dispatching error."

His statement added that "we just don't know. It may take intensive investigation."

Railroad officials said the line uses a centralized traffic system under which a single dispatcher manipulates all movement over several hundred miles of track. All switching is done automatically.

The tourist-jammed passenger trains collided in an orange grove, strewn wreckage for hundreds of yards and sending 125 persons to hospitals. Twenty-seven of the injured were admitted for treatment and one was critically hurt. The others were given first aid and released.

Hit On Main Line

Harold Walters, a fireman on the southbound train, said his engine was stopped on the main line, waiting for the sister train to switch to a siding.

"We were stopped right where we normally meet the northbound," said Walters.

Trooper J. L. Smith of the Florida Highway Patrol said he heard the crash from four miles away. When he arrived he said his first thought "was to try to get the injured people out, but that was pretty much of a job because there were so many people in hysterics."

"We started laying them up along the embankment next to the tracks. We put as many into each ambulance as we could. Some of them rode sitting up next to the stretchers," the trooper said.

Helped To Orange Groves

Some of the victims were helped into the orange groves along the track. The leaves shaded them from the broiling Florida sun—the attraction that brought many of the passengers to the state for vacations.

Greasy, blackened debris was scattered along the railroad right of way, long lengths of track were twisted. Fifteen out of the combined 36 cars plunged off the tracks, gouging deep furrows in the earth.

Shattered glass, ripped luggage, pieces of train seats and other debris were scattered. An odor of liquor hung in the air around a partially crumpled club car.

Braced For Crash

Adolph J. Thomas, a waiter in the front dining car of the northbound train and a 30-year railroad veteran, was carrying a tray of food when he heard the emergency air brakes hiss. He said he knew what was coming.

"I got back into a corner and braced myself with the tray still in my hand. After we hit the tray was gone," he said later.

Nigerian Peace Talks Start As Biafrans Starve

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — With thousands of Biafran refugees dying of starvation daily, Nigeria and Biafra opened peace talks in Addis Ababa Monday night, but neither side gave any indication of compromise.

Lt. Col. C. Odumegwu Ojukwu, leader of the Biafran secession in eastern Nigeria, declared in his opening speech that "our survival cannot be separated from the sovereign independence of our state."

Earlier, Chief Anthony Enahoro, leader of the Nigerian delegation, declared there could be no end to the year-old civil war until Biafra renounces secession.

Although both delegations expressed optimism about prospects for the talks, Enahoro said: "This may be our last chance to attempt a negotiated settlement." Unsuccessful peace talks were held earlier this year at Kampala, Uganda, and a Biafran military spokesman charged Monday that the Nigerian government has ordered its field commanders to insure a military victory before the talks in Addis Ababa end. He said there was heavy fighting Sunday on most fronts but the Biafran troops held fast.

Bearded Emperor Haile Selassie, the host at the peace talks, stirred in his chair as the bearded Ojukwu told the opening session:

"There is no precedent for a people being victim of such injustice and being at present threatened by abandonment to its aggressor. I was defending the cause of all small people who are threatened by aggression... It is us today. It will be you tomorrow."

The words were the emperor's, in his speech to the League of Nations in 1935 appealing for help against the invading Italians.

Today's election was held on schedule despite an avalanche of court suits which repeatedly delayed ballot printing. In deciding one such case, the State Supreme Court struck down two state laws which would have put incumbents' names at the heads of the ballot lists.

Here was the statewide election picture:

Congress — Only three of Michigan's 19 congressmen—Republican James Harvey of Saginaw and Democrats Charles C. Diggs of Detroit and John D. Dingell of Dearborn—faced primary opposition. All 19 incumbents are seeking re-election in November.

Judicial—Three new $32,500-a-year seats on the state court of appeals, second in legal stature only to the Supreme Court, drew seven candidates, making a primary runoff necessary in only one of the three court districts.

Legislature — Senators, with their four-year terms, were not running, but all 110 House seats are to be filled this year. Of the 109 present House members, 103 are seeking re-election.

There were 443 candidates on ballots in the various House districts. The field was narrowed to 216 today.

Constitution — Three amendments to the four-year-old Constitution were proposed. They would create a judicial tenure commission able to recommend discipline for judges, set up a state officers compensation commission, and give the governor power to fill judicial vacancies by appointment.

The Compensation Commission would set the salaries for legislators, the governor, the lieutenant governor and justices of the State Supreme Court. The pay scales are now set by the Legislature.

Air Cavalrymen Chase Enemy In Swamp Hideout

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. air cavalrymen combed a Viet Cong hideout in mangrove swamps 23 miles west of Saigon today, seeking an enemy force that air strikes, artillery and helicopter gunships had pounded through the night.

Early reports said the troops of the 1st Air Cavalry Division found 12 enemy bodies in a grave, but the toll was expected to rise as the sweep progressed, American officers said.

Intelligence reports said a Viet Cong battalion—perhaps as many as 300 men—were in the hideout when the helicopters landed nearly 1,000 Americans late Monday three miles from the Oriental River, a key infiltration corridor from Cambodia.

Two Yanks Die

The U.S. Command said the air cavalrymen cordoned off the area and pushed the enemy force toward the river until contact was broken about 4 a.m.

Two Americans were reported killed and 10 wounded, all in the initial assault when helicopters landed the air cavalrymen came under heavy machinegun fire. One observation helicopter was shot down, but the pilot escaped.

The American battle along the Oriental River was one of two actions reported on the Plain of Reeds, a watery stretch frequently used by the Viet Cong for staging attacks and an area in which the enemy controls the scattered hamlets.

South Vietnamese forces fought Monday with other enemy soldiers in the lower half of the plain along the Cambodian border 74 miles west of Saigon. The government troops reported killing 24 Viet Cong and destroying 100 sampans in a series of fire fights, while South Vietnamese losses were put at seven killed and 16 wounded.

Shell Near Saigon

Intelligence officers say that any attack on Saigon from the Plain of Reeds would have to come before September. By then monsoon flood waters will make the area passable only by boat, and the officers say the flotilla required to move a large force would be spotted easily.

Meanwhile, Viet Cong gunners struck close to the capital during the night, slamming about 20 mortar rounds into a government district headquarters just outside the southern city limits. Military spokesmen said two trucks were damaged, but no casualties were reported.

Government officials in Saigon reported a marked increase in South Vietnam's armed forces in the last four months due to the general mobilization.

Would Back Nixon

"I'm a realist," explained Romney. "If any candidate is in a position where he needs only six votes on the first ballot, he's going to get them from somewhere."

No reason was given for six as the magic number. Romney estimated that Nixon is in the lead for the nomination.

Roll Call Switches Nixon Hope In First

State May Switch On 1st

By DICK MILLIMAN
of Panax Newspapers

MIAMI BEACH — Michigan remained one of the key states at the national Republican convention Tuesday in hot, sticky Miami Beach.

The 48 Michigan votes are still committed by caucus decision to Gov. George Romney as a favorite son, although a few may peel off for California Gov. Ronald Reagan now that he has lost his amateur status and is an avowed candidate for president. But the delegation agreed at a Monday caucus to stick with the favorite son role, at least until another caucus late Tuesday and possibly a third private meeting Wednesday noon—just hours before the balloting for president begins.

The importance of the Michigan stance is that Richard Nixon, the way-out-in-front man so far, apparently doesn't have quite enough votes to swing a first-ballot triumph.

Favorite Sons Stay

Romney and Gov. James Rhodes of Ohio, with 58 big convention votes, both are maintaining their favorite son roles.

If, somehow, these votes could be turned loose, then Nixon possibly could go over the top early.

If, however, they remain stuck to Romney and Rhodes, then attrition is likely to set in on Nixon to the benefit of either Reagan or New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, or both.

That's the crux of the presidential situation here, despite the desertion of Maryland Gov. Spiro Agnew from the former triumvirate of big-state favorites. Agnew is now supporting Nixon.

Lean To Nixon

Romney said he was not surprised. He contended that the Maryland votes which now will go to Nixon always have been counted in the Nixon corner anyway, and Agnew's new Nixon stance would have no effect on the convention.

As for Reagan's announcement, Romney had this comment:

"Now his public position and his private position correspond."

The Nixon forces within Michigan's delegation have been playing it cool. They are led by State Sen. Emil Lockwood of Alma and State Rep. Russell Strange of Mt. Pleasant, who frequently scurry in and out of Nixon headquarters on some mission or another.

Michigan Split

The Nixon people have not been putting heavy muscle on Michigan delegates who remain committed to Romney.

"There would not be much sense in winning here if we're going to create such division we'll lose in November," Strange explained.

The split between Nixon and Rockefeller forces within the Michigan group here in Miami is not generally ideological, but mainly pragmatic.

The feeling among the Rockefeller advocates is that the New York governor would run a stronger race than Nixon. One intimate of U. S. Rep. Marvin Esh of Washtenaw County, for example, will recite poll results showing Esch would do better with Rockefeller than with Nixon. Esch's 2nd District is considered a swing district which the Republicans regained two years ago.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon's backers, pegging their first ballot presidential nomination hopes on late roll call switches, have been told they probably won't get any help from Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes, a key favorite son.

Also, the repeated contention by Nixon spokesmen that they are more than 30 votes over the 667 needed for nomination when the balloting starts Wednesday may have sprung a leak.

Charles McWhorter, a Nixon floor manager, said "We're going to win it on the first ballot. You watch those switches at the end of the roll call. They'll put us over."

Implicit in this statement was the acknowledgement that despite a drive to tip over favorite sons and to commit unpledged delegates, Nixon has not been able to lay his hands on the prize-winning total.

Ohio Holds

Told of McWhorter's estimate, Rhodes said he is holding fast to his noncommitted stance as a favorite son, controlling the 58-vote Ohio delegation.

But he implied strongly that Nixon will have to look elsewhere for any needed margin at the end of the first count.

"Let's see what they can do on the first ballot," Rhodes said. "Then we will figure out what we will do."

Asked if he still would be running as a favorite son on the second ballot, Rhodes said, "that's right."

Heartens Rocky

The Ohio governor's seeming assurance that he will hold fast against a Nixon blitz was even more heartening to the camp of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, the former vice president's chief rival, than California Gov. Ronald Reagan's announcement that he now is an active candidate for the top nomination.

Reagan's entry into active competition was hailed by Rockefeller and his supporters as likely to cut into Nixon's first ballot strength.

But Rhodes is a vital cog in any effort to assemble enough favorite son and uncommitted votes to keep Nixon from grabbing the prize early.

Ohio Pledged

Rockefeller and Reagan's need for Rhodes was emphasized when Maryland Gov. Spiro T. Agnew, who may put Nixon's name in nomination, quit as a favorite son. Although Rockefeller picked up 14 of the Maryland votes to 12 for Nixon, Agnew's action gave the former vice president's effort a strong psychological lift.

Ohio's delegation is pledged to give Rhodes 56 first ballot votes with two going to Nixon.

McWhorter's confidence that there will be breaks toward Nixon if he is close to nomination on the first roll call was underscored by Connecticut's 16-vote delegation.

Watch Rollcall

The group has 11 votes for Rockefeller and only three for Nixon, with two uncommitted. But the delegation has agreed to leave the door open for a possible jump to Nixon if he looks to be on the way to victory.

Gov. David F. Cargo of New Mexico said in an interview he will be watching the first ballot closely since his delegation would like to be in on the selection of a winner. New Mexico is about evenly divided between Nixon and Reagan.

An Associated Press check of publicly committed and pledged delegates show Nixon with 586, Rockefeller 259, Reagan 167, favorite sons 195—including those of Rhodes and Gov. George Romney of Michigan and uncommitted 126.

Switch To Reagan

Rockefeller professed to see continued erosion in Nixon delegate strength. But it was apparent that the few delegates who were leaving Nixon mostly were turning to Reagan and not the New York governor.

What Nixon was losing in this manner, however, was more than offsetting in gains elsewhere.

While all of this maneuvering was going on, the convention prepared in its second day to

Eisenhower Has Another Attack

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, recuperating from a heart attack, suffered renewed chest pains early this morning, Walter Reed Army Hospital announced.

The hospital announcement said it appeared to be another myocardial infarction, or heart attack.

The announcement at 10 a.m. EDT said his condition then was stable and he was comfortable and free of pain. The attack occurred at 6:15 a.m.

Only Monday night Eisenhower had addressed the Republican National Convention by television, and appeared in good health.

A myocardial infarction is a blockage of an artery in the heart.

That was the same kind of heart attack which Eisenhower suffered on June 15. That attack, described as major, occurred in Walter Reed Hospital to which he had come after suffering a milder attack in California.

At that time he was flown to March Air Force Base Hospital April 29 from his home at the El Dorado Country Club nearby. He was transferred to Walter Reed later.

The hospital said the newest attack came after Eisenhower had spent a very restful night.

The first announcement gave no further details, but said further bulletins will be issued as indicated.

In his nationally broadcast convention speech, Eisenhower urged the Republican Party to unite in a Vietnam policy that seeks a peaceful settlement without an American retreat.

Among other things, Eisenhower said that during the months of his convalescence from his fifth heart attack he has had time to think over the course his party should follow.

Eisenhower, who is 77, suffered his first heart attack in 1955 during his first term as president.

He underwent surgery for an intestinal inflammation in June 1956, and suffered a mild cerebral stroke in November 1957, but he completed his two full terms as president and retired

Chief Explains Law And Safety Work Of Police

The responsibilities of the officers on the Escanaba Police Department and the equipment they use was explained to Kiwanians by Police Chief Richard Frederick at the club's Monday luncheon meeting.

Chief Frederick, who was appointed to his post in February this year upon the resignation of Chief Joseph Corcoran, traced law enforcement back to the 9th century when the English first experimented with the tithing system whereby a group of 10 families banded together and were protected by one of the members. This then turned to groups of 100, then finally to counties or shires, he explained.

The role of sheriff came in at this time, with the law enforcer as the head of the judiciary and militia along with his other duties. In 1252, Henry III started the "Watch and Wards" system, which remained in effect until 1263, when the standing watch police department came into being. This first police department patrolled the streets of London with a lantern and club, a hazardous occupation until street lights were originated in 1807.

The first record of a police department in the United States was in Boston in 1838, when the Watch and Ward system was begun. In 1855, Boston put policemen in uniform, and police departments as we know them today were formed.

Modern Department

In tracing Escanaba's police department, Frederick said that prior to 1889 there were four wards in the city, with a constable and a marshal for each ward. The first police chief of this city was Michael Stern, according to the records, Frederick said.

In 1922, the council system was started, where the police chief was chosen by the city manager. In 1920 the department received its first motorized vehicle, used primarily to haul wrong doers off to the jail. The main jobs of the police officer in that era were to walk a beat, check doors, and handle drunk and disorderly persons.

In 1927, Escanaba purchased its first patrol vehicle. The department then consisted of the chief, assistant chief, sergeant and nine patrolmen. In 1930 a second car was added.

In 1941, two-way radios were installed in the cars, enabling the station to contact officers and direct them to areas where they were needed, Frederick continued.

In 1950, the semi-military system of today's police force was originated and proved to be very effective in the cities' law enforcement program. The present force consists of the chief, captain, four sergeants, one detective, 15 patrolmen, clerk-secretary and meter maid.

Seven Days A Week

Chief Frederick listed the duties of each of the officers. The chief is responsible for keeping his men and equipment up to date, as well as preparing a budget to be presented to the city manager. The captain is primarily responsible for supervision in the incarceration and interrogation of prisoners.

The four sergeants must keep the officers aware of their duties and also the laws regarding arrests. He also assigns officers to various calls, handles the calls that come into the station, and makes himself available for assistance. He also is responsible for all equipment which the patrolmen use, and must maintain all records and keep them available.

This past year the position of detective was established. He works in plain clothes and investigates the more serious complaints such as breaking and entering.

The 15 officers work seven days a week, 24 hours a day to keep law and order in the city. Chief Frederick listed them as the "eyes and ears" of the department, the primary force for keeping law and order in the city. They must also file an accurate and comprehensive report on arrests they make. This report must stand in court should the defendant be brought to trial. They enforce all city, state and federal laws, and must be skilled in investigation and reporting.

The clerk-secretary aids the department by preparing the state and federal reports which must be filed by the department, as well as assisting in correspondence work.

The meter maid takes care of the tickets issued as per the parking meter ordinance of the city.

Well Equipped

The department has four vehicles, two patrol cars, and two unmarked cars, one for traffic control and the other for the detective. Each officer has a 38 Police Special revolver, and the department has six 12-ga. shotguns and six 30-cal. rifles. They also have gas equipment.

Other equipment included fingerprint, breathalyzer, cameras, fire extinguishers, and various other items. All officers are trained in the use of this equipment.

In another portion of the meeting, John Sholander, director of student affairs at Bay de Noc Community College, reported that John W. Marana received the first annual Kiwanis scholarship.

Enstrom Sale Plan Drafted

MENOMINEE — Purex Corp. has announced its plan to purchase the outstanding shares of common stock of R. J. Enstrom Corp., the local helicopter manufacturing firm, which has been developed by repeated sales of stock among local residents.

Purex has asked the State of California Division of Corporations to authorize issue of 61,881 shares of its common stock to Enstrom stockholders in return for their shares of stock in the Menominee company. The Enstrom stock was purchased for $10 a share.

A Purex spokesman said that if Purex stock were selling for $35 a share on the New York Stock Exchange, the rate of exchange for Enstrom shareholders would be $10.50 for each share of their Enstrom stock. Purex stock has been selling around $31.

Plans to sell the local firm to Purex were announced several months ago. For the year ended Sept. 30, 1967 Enstrom had a net loss of $396,925, or $2.02 a share. For the 8 months ending May 31, 1968 it had a net loss of $232,470.

Mature Coho To Be Harvested At Weirs In Rivers

By BOB VOGES

LANSING (AP) — The mature Coho salmon that manage to escape the navy of sports fishermen expected this fall will find themselves neatly trapped by the State Conservation Department when they try to run up their main home streams.

The department has decided to use weirs to harvest the mature Cohos when they attempt to swim up the streams rather than try to take them in open waters.

The fish division talks of the Salmon in poundage rather than individual fish when planning the most efficient utilization of this newest Michigan natural resource.

It is estimated by the fish experts that between 3 and 5 million pounds of Coho salmon will escape the open sports fishing season in Lake Michigan and enter the Platte and Little Manistee Rivers and Bear Creek during the fall and early winter this year.

Decide On Weirs

West coast experts wise in the ways of salmon were consulted before the decision was made.

Arguments for harvesting the fish at weirs located near the mouths of their home streams included:

—A better quality product.

—Greater economic benefits, both to sports fishermen and commercially.

A more precise regulation of the harvest with an assurance that enough will escape to spawn naturally.

—Reduced manpower demands on the department.

"Economics are overwhelmingly on the side of a river mouth fishery," said fish division chief Wayne Tody in his presentation to the conservation commission.

"Coho, and to a lesser degree Chinook salmon, achieve a great percentage of their total growth in the last few months of life. A river mouth fishery harvests the fish at maximum size.

Benefit Anglers

"No boats, nets, and sundry items of commercial equipment are needed and much less manpower is required to harvest the crop," Tody continued. "The fish can be harvested without interruption or waste due to adverse weather conditions.

"Taking fish at the stream mouth weirs provides the sport fishery to fish over a maximum population in the open water," Tody added.

The department is emphasizing, meanwhile, that sports fishermen will have the first crack at the salmon while they are in their prime. The fish mill around the river mouths in heavy concentrations before they start their upstream runs to spawn.

The hope is that the fishermen will take more of big beauties than there will be left for harvest in their streams.

College Needs Student Rooms

A critical shortage of adequate housing for Bay de Noc Community College students is indicated says College President Richard Rinehart.

With the fall semester starting the week of Aug. 19, very few available rooms and apartments have been listed with college authorities. Last year 118 students rented facilities while attending classes at Bay de Noc. This year about 140 students will need housing.

Persons having rental housing should contact the college. Although it does not approve housing, it attempts to locate adequate facilities for the students.

Mackinac Forest Infestation

Foresters War On Pine Sawfly

During the fourth week of July war was waged on the redheaded pine sawfly which was causing severe damage to a 65 acre red pine plantation north of Engadine in the Mackinac State Forest.

The sawfly has been present in this plantation for several years and has been watched closely for signs of increase or decrease. It is the Conservation Department's policy not to spray with insecticides in such cases until it is absolutely necessary.

Last year the sawfly population exploded and approximately eight acres of the plantation was destroyed. This year Area Forester Bill Mahalak kept the plantation under observation for adult sawfly egg laying activity. When it became obvious that the insects would be even more numerous than they were last year, plans for spraying were made.

Methoxychlor was the insecticide used since it is one of the "softer" pesticides which break down rapidly and it is one of the least poisonous to other animal life. It takes only a very small amount of methoxychlor to kill the sawfly larvae while it would take a great amount of it to harm man, game animals or song birds. The spray is carefully applied so that no more than is actually needed is used.

The spraying was done by a two man crew using a knapsack mist blower. This is a device carried on a man's back and powered by a small two cycle gasoline engine. If a larger acreage were involved, it would have been more economical to do this spraying by airplane. Working on the project were Dan Watson of Newberry and Peter Dale of Naubinway.

Violator Of Deer Law Is Fined, Jailed

The arrest and conviction of several men charged with law violations is reported by the Conservation Department.

Joseph P. Sipe, 37, of Marquette, unlawful possession of deer pleaded guilty in Justice George Fezzy's court at Marquette recently and was ordered to pay a fine of $50, costs of $10, go to jail for five days, pay damages of $100 and costs of $4, and his deer hunting privileges were revoked for 1968, '69 and '70.

Ronald R. Reager, 26, of Mt. Clemens, arrested in Alger County for using more than two lines in attempting to take fish, was arraigned before Justice William Dore, Munising, on Aug. 2. He pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $5 and costs of $7.30.

Kenneth E. Kucharski, 19, Marquette, pleaded guilty in Justice Lawrence Ewing's court in Marquette to fishing without a license and paid a fine of $10 and costs of $3.70.

Yank Slain In Korean Trouble

SEOUL (AP) — One American, one South Korean and at least nine North Koreans were killed Monday and Sunday in a rash of shooting incidents along the Korean frontier. Five Americans also were wounded.

One clash occurred less than one mile from Panmunjom as the 275th joint military armistice commission meeting was in progress.

Military spokesmen said one American soldier and at least one North Korean were killed and four Americans were wounded. Troops from the 2nd U.S. Infantry Division pursued a handful of North Korean infiltrators after the 30-minute firefight, but the North Koreans escaped back across the border.

Jackson Chief Says Shooting Was Exaggerated

JACKSON (AP)—Jackson Police Chief Earl B. Miller said Monday reports that 20 to 40 shots were fired at a Jackson police car may have been exaggerated.

Patrolman J. David J. Cram and W.D. Norment said in a police report that between 20 and 40 shots were fired at them as they drove past the Peter Claver Community Center on Francis Street in the southeastern Michigan city of 50,000 Monday morning.

"I doubt whether they many shots were actually fired," Miller said. He said the absence of any shell casings at the scene indicated automatic weapons were not used.

Cram and Norment were ordered to leave the center as soon as they reported the shooting. When other officers reached the scene about 30 minutes later, they found no one at Claver Center, the police report said.

Miller said "one or two" .28 caliber bullets were found at the scene. Earlier, police told newsmen no bullets or spent cartridges were found in the investigation.

Nab Rifleman At Convention

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Authorities alerted by a tip from Nevada's governor have arrested a 29-year-old man who they said had shipped a rifle to his room at a hotel housing two delegations to the Republican National Convention.

Dade County sheriff's police said James Chad Anderson of Kanab, Utah, was charged with vagrancy and volunteered to undergo psychiatric tests.

Nevada Gov. Paul Laxalt said he recognized Anderson and told hotel officials of his presence. Laxalt said authorities were called after the man inquired about fishing tackle he was having shipped here.

Lt. James Vermilye, in charge of the Dade County criminal intelligence unit, said the FBI and Secret Service joined police in a check that "revealed a .22 caliber rifle had been shipped to Anderson's room at the hotel."

Vermilye quoted Anderson as saying the rifle was an antique that he had included in the package containing fishing tackle he planned to use at this Florida resort city.

Laxalt said he recognized Anderson, who had no connection with the convention, as a former Las Vegas, Nev., resident.

The governor told a state caucus the man had been writing unintelligible letters to some delegates.

Plane Lands On Truck, But No Injuries Result

JDUMAS, Tex. (AP) — A crop duster landed his airplane on top of a moving pickup truck Monday, but neither the pilot nor the driver was injured.

The pilot, Harold Eugene Ellis, had been spraying in a field about eight miles northwest of Dumas in the Texas panhandle. Ellis told police he swooped low over the moving truck driven by his partner, Clyde Barker, to signal him the job was over.

A downdraft caught his plane. Ellis said, and the craft panicked onto the top of the truck.

One of the plane's wheels went through the rear window of the pickup and its propeller chopped up the truck's radiator. The truck veered into a field and came to rest with the plane still perched on top.

Good Start

Delta County has joined Marquette and Alger counties in the formation of a mental health district which will bring to the three county area a program of mental health diagnosis and care of unprecedented scope here.

It will bring to the area the resources of the local district, the state and the federal governments for the care of the retarded and the mentally disturbed on a plane similar to that with which the public has been familiar in the field of physical health, and really even moreso, because government has assumed some responsibilities for mental health care which surpass those of its physical health program.

This new program will be under the authority of Act 54, the comprehensive mental health care law, which will provide most of the money for the program from federal and state sources.

The Delta County Board of Supervisors balked at first at joining with our neighboring counties on the north in a three-county mental health district because it was hopeful that more could be done to upgrade mental health services staffing here if Delta had its own program and not a branch office served on a visitor basis out of Marquette.

The new program, while it has Marquette as its headquarters, is a district program with distributed staff and it promises much more service and greater strength of organization to Delta than if it had gone along on its own.

The structuring of the mental health care program in Michigan does not favor small unit operation nor does the present availability of professional people to staff the offices.

Dr. David R. Wall, director of the newly formed Community Mental Health Services, has given direction to the creation of the three-county district which is much valued in Delta County. While Delta should not have had representation on the board equal with Marquette, because it is much smaller in both area and population, it has been given 5 directors just like Marquette, while Alger has been given two. This reflects Dr. Wall's thinking about partnership in the organization.

Dr. George Maniaci of Gladstone, whose interest in the retarded has given much leadership in care of these people to this area and which has been recognized statewide, was very helpful to organization of Delta's role in the three county mental health district. City Councilman Edward Cox was a chief author of the cooperation that was necessary in the Delta County Board of Supervisors if the tri-county project was to succeed.

Dr. Mary Cretens, director of the Delta-Menominee Public Health Department was helpful and so were Dr. Richard Rinehart and Leo Alperovitz of Bay de Noc Community College.

We now have a firm foundation upon which to build mental health services here, adding a new dimension to our medical staffing and also to the hope that we can by early diagnosis and treatment avoid much hospitalization in the treatment of mental disturbance.

It is an evidence of our ability to cope with change that we have committed our governments at three levels to a comprehensive program of mental health care. It is a far cry from our old attitude of reluctant willingness to build asylums in which to incarcerate the insane and the feeble minded, and then to build more when they are filled.

We are now embarked on a humane venture to use science's new knowledge of the human mind to help it through crises, to restore it to usefulness after breakdown, and to maximize its capacity in retardation. This venture will be expensive, but there is really no choice but to embrace it and to support it adequately as a basic contribution to the mental stability of the citizenry.

All who work for this cause serve the public well.

Deliberate Murder

Cleveland's recent racial violence should be food for thought and study for some time.

Taking a statistical view of the battle, the snipers who ambushed and killed three policemen came out on the short end. Seven of their own number were killed, wounded or arrested. Weapons and a stockpile of ammunition were confiscated. And they failed to spark a ghetto-wide uprising.

But if their aim was to intensify fear and distrust among blacks and whites alike, in the process of killing as many cops as they could they achieved their purpose.

This marks the first clear instance of black militants openly, deliberately and without provocation attacking police. They employed the age-old tactic of the ambush, deceiving their victims into their line of fire and shooting them down with great accuracy from carefully chosen positions.

This ambush left terror and frustration in its wake. Dissension ripples through police ranks. One white officer has resigned. Others say, they will be a long time forgetting what they feel was a slap in the face when Mayor Carl Stokes, a Negro, pulled white officers out of the trouble area.

Cleveland's misfortune is a practical illustration of how easily a few can wreak havoc among many. It can happen elsewhere.

The lesson for all is that we must not permit a handful of fanatics, of whatever color, to shape our attitudes toward the real problems confronting us.

And the Walls Come Tumbling Down?

'Brain Death' Is End Of Life, Says Harvard Panel

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — A committee of Harvard University faculty members say "brain death" or "irreversible coma" should be a basis for pronouncing death even though in some cases the heart may continue to beat.

A set of medical guidelines for such a definition, published in today's issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association, says it is needed for two reasons:

—"Improvements in resuscitation and supportive measures which have led to increased efforts to save those who are desperately injured: Individuals whose hearts continue to beat but whose brains are irreversibly damaged."

To End Controversy —"The use of obsolete criteria for the definition of death which can lead to controversy in obtaining organs for transplantation."

The 12-member committee is composed of the faculties of medicine, public health, divinity and arts and sciences. Its chairman is Dr. Henry K. Beecher, professor of research in anesthesiology at Harvard and the Massachusetts General Hospital.

The group set numerous guidelines for determining the characteristics of a "permanently nonfunctioning brain," including clinical tests for unresponsiveness and unresponsiveness, lack of movement and breathing, and absence of reflexes. It also suggested obtaining confirmatory data by the electroencephalogram.

Up To Physician

The committee said that clinical and other tests should be repeated at least 24 hours after the initial tests. They said final determination of death should be made only by a physician, not by the family, and that the decision "should be made by physicians not involved in any later effort to transplant organs or tissue from the deceased individual."

The committee said it thought that if new criteria for pronouncing death in an individual sustaining irreversible coma as a result of permanent brain damage were to be adopted by the medical profession such could form the basis for change in the current legal concept of death.

"No statutory change in the law should be necessary," the report said, "since the law treats this question essentially as one of fact to be determined by physicians."

Dissidents Planning Hot Chicago Time

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — For several months, activist groups have been laying the groundwork for protest or disruption at the National Democratic Convention late this month in Chicago.

The evidence thus far is that these plans are so jerry-built and uncoordinated that serious trouble could be held in check through careful preparatory groundwork by police and convention officials.

But the clutch of hot heads assembled in Chicago outside the convention halls will be so large that if security measures are slipshod, one incendiary incident could erupt in serious, sustained violence.

Reportedly, several hundred trained antiwar activists plan a "crash-in" much like the attempt to storm the Pentagon in the 1967 march on Washington. The planners want a deliberate confrontation with the Chicago police.

At gatherings in Baltimore, the Southern Christian Leadership Conference distributed handouts promising a renewal of their protests in Chicago. Lowell Rheinheimer, a leader of the Chicago Area Draft Resisters, has announced a demonstration. The National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam plans "massive protest demonstrations" throughout the convention period. The committee's demonstrators co-ordinator, Rennie Davis, is attempting to organize a coalition of New Left and anti-Vietnam war groups. The National Conference for New Politics says it will bring demonstrators.

The Youth International Party (Yippies) reportedly is organizing a "festival of life" for convention time. It is said the militant, violence-prone, all-Negro Black Panther Party, based in California, will be present.

Rumors, so far unconfirmed, are prevalent in way-out circles that two groups named "Provo" and "Mota" plan to "flood the convention area" with hallucinogenic drugs.

The Students for a Democratic Society are preparing an 'expose' time for the convention. If they complete preparations, SDS members will distribute information "on who the Democratic national committeemen are, what their financial interests are and how this affects their political decisions." The aim is to "expose the power behind" these men. Some SDS men hope to march with posters, each showing the photograph of a convention delegate and listing his corporate and political connections.

The June state convention of the Communist Party USA, Illinois District, adopted a motion that complete party support would be given non-violent protest demonstrations sponsored by activist groups during the convention.

If the militant leaders have their way, very little of this effort, apparently, will aim at influencing the nomination of a particular presidential candidate. Most simply want to "expose," protest, heckle—and gain publicity or notoriety.

Ann Landers

Might Marry Girl If Kid's No Carrot Top

Dear Ann Landers: Our 20-year-old son, Cy, has been going with a nice quiet girl who comes to the house evenings and helps him with his schoolwork. (Cy is taking some night school classes.) We all like Hilda because she is encouraging our son to make something of himself.

Yesterday I noticed Hilda looked unusually large around the middle even though she was wearing a smock. I asked Cy this morning if he was aware that Hilda had put on some weight. He replied matter-of-factly, "Are you just getting around to noticing it? Hilda is six months pregnant."

When I regained my composure I asked Cy when they planned to get married. He said, "The baby might not be mine. We're going to wait and see who he looks like."

Ann, I could not believe my ears. Cy then went on to say something about a former boy friend of Hilda's—one whom she had not quite given up. The boy has red hair. If the baby is a redhead, Cy might not marry her.

Hilda is going to get larger and larger and we have two pre-teen children in the family who know where babies come from. Shall we tell Cy he can't bring her to the house anymore? Please, Ann, tell me what to do. I'm going out of my mind. P. S. Hilda does not drink or smoke.—D.C.M.

Dear D: Well it just goes to prove that some girls can have fun without smoking or drinking. Don't tell Cy he can't bring Hilda to the house anymore. It won't help matters any. (P. S. You know, of course, the baby's looks will not prove anything, but stay out of it. These two are not interested in opinions or advice.)

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter Jan is 17 years old and I am worried sick about her. This girl is attractive, bright and popular, but she doesn't know how to boil water much less put together a meal. She can't sew on a button or scrub a floor so that it looks halfway decent. Jan will be going away to school in the fall and I hate to think what her room will look like. (I have an idea because I know what her room at home would look like if I didn't clean it.)

Please don't tell me I am to blame, Ann. It's not true. I have done my best to teach Jan the things a girl should know but she is not interested.

Children today don't live like they used to. It's TV, their own telephone, cars all over the place, shopping for clothes, hi-fi, stereo and wild competition for grades so they can make the better colleges. Please tell me, Ann, how can mothers teach their daughters to be homemakers when they refuse to stay home long enough to learn? Do you have a word for me?—DEFEATED

Dear D: Yes, Horsefeathers. Don't blame "the times" for your failure. There are 24 hours in every day—for all of us. It's how we choose to spend those 24 hours that counts. If you've permitted your daughter to spend every one of those 24 hours doing as she pleased, you did her no favor. Every girl should grow up with household responsibilities. It makes life easier for her mother (who deserves a break) and it equips the girl for marriage with something besides good looks and a talent for spending money.

How will you know when the real thing comes along? Ask Ann Landers. Send for her booklet "Love Or Sex and How To Tell the Difference." Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

South's two no-trump rebid told of the equivalent of a two no-trump opening; North's bid of three clubs signaled that he had a four-card major suit somewhere; South's three diamonds showed two such majors; North's three hearts that he held four hearts and the rest of the bidding appears to show that even the Italians can get confused by their own bidding methods.

A spade was opened by East and the Americans just waited for their two diamond tricks.

The contract wasn't too bad. If West held the ace of diamonds it would make as long as hearts broke 3-2, and might even make if hearts broke 4-1, so it could be described as a 40 per cent chance for slam.

What do you do?
A—Double. You hope to set your opponents at least two tricks.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding five clubs West doubles four spades. This is passed to you. You are not vulnerable. What do you do?

The United States Team—Bill Root, Alvin Roth and Edgar Kaplan of New York and Arthur Robinson, Robert Jordan and Norman Kay of Philadelphia—deserve great credit for their magnificent performance in the World Bridge Olympiad at Deauville.

They reached the finals and gave the great Italian team a fight all the way. Today's hand shows Kaplan and Kay stopping at three no-trump making five. They use a 20 to 21-point plus two no-trump opening and Kay opened with that bid. Kaplan looked at his 10 points and 4-3-3-3 distribution and decided to settle for the sure game. A club was opened and Norman took the first 11 tricks.

Centennial Farms:

Special Program Of Recognition Planned At Fair

Centennial farmers of the Upper Peninsula—those whose farms have been in ownership of the same family for 100 or more years—will be honored guests at the Governor's luncheon program at the U. P. State Fair on Friday, Aug. 16.

The special recognition program is sponsored by the Michigan Historical Commission and the U. P. State Fair Board of Managers, and will be held at the Terrace Supper Club. Accepting invitations to receive certificates in connection with the observance of the 20th anniversary of Michigan's Centennial Farm program are: Mr. and Mrs. Louis Farley, whose Centennial Farm is near Garden, Delta County; G. Leslie Bouschor, Manistique, whose farm is in Schoolcraft County south of Thompson; Frank Gray, near Garden in Delta County; Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Schaffer of Ashland, Wis., whose farm is at Ontonagon; and Clarence Penegor, whose farm is at Rockland in Ontonagon County.

The Centennial Farm program was inaugurated by the Michigan Historical Commission in 1948 for the purpose of emphasizing the contributions which farmers have made over the past century to the economic, educational, cultural and social advancement of Michigan.

The program received the support of the state's farmers and a Centennial Farm Association was organized, which meets annually at Michigan State University during Farmer's Week. The Detroit Edison Co. and the Consumers Power Co., recognizing the importance of agriculture to the state, contribute funds for the purchase of Centennial Farm markers, which are presented to the farm owners.

The Michigan Historical Commission will meet in Escanaba the same day the Centennial Farm recognition luncheon is scheduled.

Dr. Willis Dunbar of Kalamazoo is president of the Historical Commission, and other members are Willard C. Wichers, Holland; Mrs. Donald Adams, Drayton Plains; Hudson Mead; Gospe Pointe; Dr. Lewis Vander Velde, Ann Arbor; and Clint Dunathan of Escanaba.

Void Price Hike For War Steel

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two of the major steel-price boosters have agreed to hold the line on some defense items, but the government is still probing for the first significant crack in a nearly solid industry front.

Republic, No. 3 producer, and Armco, No. 5, assured the Pentagon Monday they would not raise prices on military barbed wire and certain steel used in shell casings.

But both firms quickly noted they hadn't raised the prices on the items—accounting for less than 25 per cent of the Pentagon purchases—in the first place. Despite the pledges from Armco and Republic and continued escalation of government pressure on the industry, there appeared to be little if any net gain for either side.

There was no movement from Bethlehem Steel, the No. 2 producer which sparked the current war of nerves by hiking prices on all basic mill products nearly 5 per cent last week.

The Bethlehem increase followed industry agreement with the United Steelworkers on a three-year labor contract expected to cost 6 per cent a year.

President Johnson reportedly is pinning hopes for a price rollback on industry-leader U.S. Steel. If U.S. Steel holds out in refusing to increase some prices—especially on big tonnage sheet and strip—other companies could be expected to do likewise to remain competitive as they did in 1966.

Meanwhile, Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz told a news conference: "There is real basis for concern over the level at which wages and prices are chasing each other." He said he favors "the exercise of private restraint."

Rep. Joe L. Evins, D-Tenn., ordered the staff of his House Small Business Committee to study the increases.

Chairman Paul Rand Dixon of the Federal Trade Commission postponed a scheduled hearing on pricing practices until mid-week so he could discuss the situation with congressmen.

Escanaba Students Attend Student Council Workshop

By CHRIS OLSON

Three Escanaba students have just returned from a week at a student council leadership workshop sponsored by the University of Michigan.

Students include Kathy Williams, student council president, and myself, student council secretary-treasurer, from the Escanaba Area High School and Chris Way, Holy Name Student Council vice president.

We participated in the workshop which was held from July 28 through Aug. 2 at BA-TA-WA-GA-MA on Indian Lake near Crystal Falls.

The week's program included classes on "Aims, Objectives and Activities" with Gene Stiles, student council advisor of Ravenna High School; "Group Leadership Techniques," taught by Milan Marich, instructor at the University of Michigan School of Education; "Intra-School Relations," taught by Ray Phillips, student council advisor of Parchment High School; and "Communications within the School," with Charles Ash, assistant principal of Ravenna High School.

The 60 student council leaders from all parts of Michigan also participated in "Issue Seminars," where we had opportunities to share ideas and information on critical issues facing youth.

An executive council and committees on communications, evaluation and social activities were formed to supplement the functions of the week. In this way, the students regulated their own activities and were placed on an honor system.

The Communications Committee printed daily schedules, gave news broadcasts and published a newspaper, Iron County Presses Out "Wrinkle-Free" Leaders. Kathy Williams and I served on this committee.

The Evaluation Committee drew up a critical analysis of the camp—its activities, its teachers and its value to students.

The Social Committee was responsible for planning all recreation, which includes a trip to an eagle's nest, a hayride, a visit to the Crystal Falls Iron Mine, a trip to see the bears at the garbage dump, a scavenger hunt, a canoe race, volleyball tournaments, singing around the campfire, a greased watermelon contest and a semi-formal dance with a band "The Outer Edges" from Crystal Falls. Chris Way was a member of this committee.

The Executive Council approved all activities, determined the curfew and solved all camp problems.

Workshop director was James Hoeh from the University of Michigan. J. Downs Herold of the U. of M. acted as workshop coordinator while John Temple, student council advisor for Falls High School, served as FIVE YOUTHS IN Farmington Township claim a world record for continuous bicycle riding. The bicycle was kept in motion for 300 hours — 12½ days — in the streets of their subdivision, they said, eclipsing 250 hours by a Flint group. At an estimated 10 m.p.h. that would be 3,000 miles. (AP Wirephoto)

Spring Rains Slow Pea Crop

The current crop of peas, which is slightly down in volume due to the unseasonable cool weather and heavy rains, should be completely processed by the end of this week, announces George Hansen, president of the Hansen Canning Co. in Gladstone.

The company, the employer of 75 men and 50 women, has increased its acreage over that of 1967 by about 10 per cent (to 700 acres), but the crop has followed the national trend toward a slight decline.

"Lower yields are being reported even in Wisconsin," said Hansen, "where 40 to 50 per cent of the peas are processed. Yet the total yield is not too far off."

Beginning Wednesday the Hansen Canning Co. will be processing snap beans, and the prospect of a good crop appears favorable. "Of course it's too early to tell," said Hansen, "but I've examined the vine growth and it looks very good."

Braves Defeat Hot Cubs; Pappas Takes Short-Cut

By The Associated Press

Relief has become the means to an end for many of today's pitchers, but self-support is Milt Pappas' short cut to the winner's circle.

"The secret is to swing the bat," the Atlanta hurler said Monday night after stopping Chicago's hot Cubs 6-1 with a six-hitter and clouting a three-run homer in the process.

Pappas' policy has paid off in 14 home runs—four of them game-winners—since he came up as a Baltimore Orioles prodigy 10 years ago. His first 1968 homer, a seventh-inning blast off Jack Lamabe, keyed a five-run burst that snapped the Cubs' winning streak at six games.

Elsewhere in the National League, Los Angeles nipped Pittsburgh 1-0 in 10 innings. St. Louis took Cincinnati 3-2, Houston edged New York 6-5 and Philadelphia beat San Francisco 6-4 in 10 innings.

The Braves broke a 1-1 tie in the sixth on singles by Joe Torre and Tito Francona, and Bob Johnson's sacrifice fly before Pappas unloaded. Felipe Alou's double and a single by Mike Lum accounted for the fifth run in the inning.

"A pitcher can really help himself with the bat," Pappas explained, "because if he can hit the ball the manager figures in the seventh or eighth innings that the pitcher has as good a chance as somebody coming in new."

The 29-year-old right-hander, who has won three in a row for an 8-7 mark, retired the last 10 Cubs in order after Ernie Banks' 19th homer tied the game 1-1 in the top of the sixth. The victory lifted the Braves into a second-place tie with Chicago, 14 games behind the runaway Cardinals.

Zoilo Versalles' fourth hit—a run-scoring single with two out in the 10th—sent the Dodgers past the Pirates, who have been shut out three times in succession.

Rookie Jack Billingham, making his first major league start as an emergency replacement for Don Drysdale, who was given the night off because of his daughter's illness, blanked the Pirates on five hits until the ninth and winner Jim Brewer completed a six-hit whitewash.

Loser Steve Blass allowed six hits until the 10th, when Bob Bailey beat out a slow roller, took second on a ground out and scored on Versalles' single to center.

Rookie reliever Wayne Granger rescued Nelson Briles from an eighth-inning jam and Joe Hoerner came out of the bullpen to finish up in the ninth as the Cardinals withstood Cincinnati's late rally.

The Cards scored a run in each of the first two innings and Mike Shannon's pop fly double sent Orlando Cepeda in from first base in the sixth for a 3-0 bulge. But the Reds knocked out Briles, 14-7, on run-scoring singles by Lee May and Johnny Bench in the eighth before Granger got the final out.

Maris To Retire After '68 Season

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Roger Maris says he got burned and had the scars to prove it when he left the New York Yankees two years ago.

When the star outfielder announced Monday he is leaving the St. Louis Cardinals after this season, he said he has had "probably two of the most enjoyable years" of his career. And he has a comfortable future to show for it.

In 1961, Maris hit 61 home runs in a 162-game schedule, breaking the 154-game record of 60 set by Babe Ruth in 1927. That marked the high point of his career with the Yankees.

Two years later, he hit only 23 home runs and drove in 53 runs. That marked the beginning of the end for Maris in New York. While announcing his retirement at a news conference, Maris indicated those last bad years with the Yankees haunted him.

"It's like being burned. You never get rid of the scars," Maris said. "As far as the fans in New York were concerned when I would go back there, I just did my job. I wasn't worried about their reaction."

Maris said he was going to quit after the 1966 season. He'd been plagued by injuries, the fans and had trouble with the press. But his winter trade to the Cardinals in 1966 for third baseman Charley Smith almost forced him to play another year, Maris indicated.

"I didn't like how the trade came about," the two-time American League Most Valuable Player confessed. "I told New York I was going to retire, and they made the trade announcement before I had a chance to open my mouth. And I didn't want the writers to jump on me by saying I retired because of the trade."

"So I decided to play another year," Maris added, "and I liked it so well I decided to play another year. It's a pleasure playing where people like you."

Maris, 33, was paid an estimated $70,000 for each of his two years with the Cardinals. And his future was assured when President August A. Busch Jr., of the Cardinals awarded Maris a beer distributorship in his new home town of Gainesville, Fla.

The 12-year veteran came up to the major leagues with the Cleveland Indians. He played for the former Kansas City Athletics before moving on to the Yankees. He was the American League's Most Valuable Player in 1960 and 1961. He also hit a home run his first time up in a World Series game.

CONGRATULATIONS — Detroit Tigers' Denny McLain reaches to shake hands with a teammate as he leaves the field Sunday after his 22nd win of the season, a 2-1 victory over the Minnesota Twins in the Twin Cities. McLain gave up five hits in this his 28th start of the year. He has now completed 19 games this season and is the major league's biggest winner. (AP Wirephoto)

Mud Hens Begin Home Stand In IL Top Spot

By The Associated Press

Toledo's Mud Hens, having shown they can win the big ones, headed home for a seven-game, six-day stand today with a 4½-game lead in the International League. The pennant race now has only five weeks to go.

For the Mud Hens, the remaining schedule looks both good and bad. Of the 35 games ahead, 18 are at home—but no fewer than 20 will be against first-division rivals who still have designs on the flag.

Only four, all on the road, are against second-place Columbus. None are against third-place Rochester, which trails by five games, and seven against fourth-place Jacksonville, 6½ games behind the Mud Hens.

The immediate prospects, however, appear rosy, for while the Mud Hens are playing host the next three days to last-place Richmond, their nearest pursuers—Columbus and Rochester—will be trying to knock each other out on the Rochester field. After seeing its lead over Columbus dwindle to 2½ games in three straight losses to the Jets, Toledo beat the Jets a second time in a row Monday night—this time 3-1 in 11 innings—to regain a comfortable lead.

Rochester, meantime, was strengthening its hold on third place by edging Jacksonville 3-2; Louisville was capturing sixth place from Buffalo by beating the Bisons 3-0, and Richmond was whipping Syracuse 3-1.

Toledo and Columbus battled through nine scoreless innings. Each team scored in the 10th. Then, in the 11th, Ron Woods' single, Marty Richardson's bun and a throwing error by relief pitcher Gene Garber gave Toledo the tie-breaker. Lenny Green's single scored an insurance run.

Greg Goossen's two-run homer gave Jacksonville a 2-0 lead over Rochester and with rookie pitcher Steve Renko in possession of a two-hitter going into the ninth, the lead seemed safe.

But in their last turn at bat, the Red Wings scored three times on a single, two walks, Terry Crowley's two-run single and Chet Trail's sacrifice fly.

Among his many "firsts" in the World Series, Yogi Berra was the first to hit a pinch-hit home run.

Buffalo Rookies Defeat Lions In Grid Contest

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The Buffalo Bills, using rookies freely for the first time in an exhibition football game, defeated the National Football League Detroit Lions 13-9 Monday night in 90-degree-plus temperature.

Rookie Gary McDermott of Tulsa led the one-time American Football League champions to their first triumph over an NFL team as he repeatedly ripped apart Detroit's line and outlasted his former college teammate, Detroit rookie quarterback Greg Barton.

It was another rookie, Ben Gregory of Nebraska, who scored Buffalo's touchdown, as he took an eight-yard pass from veteran quarterback Jack Kemp at 1:36 of the second period. Just before that pass, Kemp passed 16 yards to Charley Ferguson and seven yards to McDermott.

The Bills actually won the game on a pair of field goals—27 yards and 35 yards—booted by Mike Mercer.

Detroit, down 10-0, broke into the scoring column when left-footed, soccer-style kicker Garo Yepremian booted a 26-yard field goal shortly after the third period began.

Just before the end of the third period, Barton completed a 51-yard pass-run play to Gail Cogdill that put the Lions on Buffalo's 19. Barton missed on a pass, Mel Farr plunged to the 10, Dave Kopyay moved to the two in two plays and Farr bulled over for a six-pointer at the start of the fourth quarter.

Until this game—the second between the Bills and Lions—coach Joe Collier had used his rookies sparingly in preseason contests. But against the Lions, winners over the Bills 19-17 a year ago, Collier went along steadily with McDermott, Gregory and quarterback Dan Darragh, a rookie from William and Mary.

When Detroit threatened late in the game, however, he sent in Kemp to preserve Buffalo's lead.

In major developments around the training camps, Kevin Hardy finally got around to reporting to the San Francisco 49ers, a flock of cuts were made and members of the College All-Star team, beaten by the Green Bay Packers 34-17 last Friday, began reporting to their pro teams.

Hardy, a highly regarded, 290-pound rookie lineman prospect, was a key figure in the deal in which former 49er Dace Parks signed with New Orleans. Hardy, with the Saints, said at the time he might seek a lawyer's advice and wasn't sure he'd report to San Francisco. He did report Monday.

He said his delay in reporting "wasn't a question of being unhappy with the 49ers and money wasn't a factor. I was settled at the New Orleans camp."

The Green Bay Packers cut two rookies, the Atlanta Falcons asked waivers on five and Pittsburgh dropped two. The Philadelphia Eagles and Cincinnati Bengals each cut three rookies and three veterans. Eagle vets to go were Dave Lince, John Hankinson and Bill Stetz, while the Bengals dropped Sol Brannan, Richard Sligh and Tom Rhoads.

The Minnesota Vikings cut two.

R. C. Owens of the Baltimore Colts became the NFL's first "goatender" when his crossbar leap batted away a Washington Redskins field goal attempt in 1962.

Orioles Down Yanks To Stay On Course

By The Associated Press
Pete Richert and Boog Powell almost waited too long to zero in on home plate, but both found the range in time to keep Baltimore on course in the American League pennant race.

Richert, bothered by wildness after a 15-day stay in the Army, almost wild pitched the winning run home in the ninth inning before bringing his pitches under control.

That gave Powell another chance after leaving seven runners on base in four previous times at bat, and the big first baseman took advantage by driving himself home with a 10th inning homer.

Between them—Richert's pitching and Powell's power—the Orioles grabbed a 5-3 victory over the New York Yankees Monday night and closed within 5½ games of the league-leading Detroit Tigers.

Boston tripped the Chicago White Sox 2-1 in 10 innings in the only other contest.

Richert, who had walked only three men in 37 1-3 innings, entered a 3-3 game with two on and two out in the ninth inning and walked Jake Gibbs to load the bases. His first pitch to Horace Clark was so high it took a leaping catch by catcher Andy Etchebarren to save a wild pitch.

"Etchebarren saved the game on that play," said Baltimore manager Earl Weaver. That pitch brought Weaver to the mound.

"I told him (Richert) not to overthrow, not to strain. That's what he did on that pitch, tried to get too much on it."

Richert then got Clarke to pop up.
"You can't take your place on the roster and not be ready to pitch," said Richert, who was placed back on the active list before the game.

With another chance, Powell opened the 10th for the Orioles with his 20th homer and Brooks Robinson followed with his 12th, both against loser Dooley Womack, (2-6).

Richert, 3-2, then retired the side in order in the Yankees' 10th for Baltimore's sixth victory in seven games.

Boston won for the fifth time in six outings when Russ Gibson stroked a run-scoring single in the 10th off Bob Locker after Chicago starter Tommy John walked George Scott and Jerry Adair sacrificed.

John, 7-5, had allowed only four hits, but one of them was Ken Harrelson's 28th homer in the eighth inning.

The White Sox got their run in the sixth when Tom McCraw and Tommy Davis smacked doubles off Dave Morehead, but Bill Landis, 3-2, relieved in the seventh and blanked Chicago the rest of the way.

Dick Pole Signs Red Sox Contract

ONTONAGON—Richard Pole, star pitcher for the Ewen-Trout Creek team of the Western U. P. League, has signed a contract with the Boston Red Sox, according to Don McDonald, Ontonagon representative for the Red Sox in the Ontonagon area.

Pole, a righthanded hurler, chalked up an 8-1 won-lost record, allowed only five earned runs in nine games, averaged 14 strikeouts a game and for good measure, batted .383, to lead his team to the Western U. P. title this season. Pole pitched two innings of relief in Ewen-Trout Creek's 3-1 win over Watersmeet in the final game of the season Friday night.

Pole, a strapping 6-2, 195-pounder, is a 1968 graduate of Ewen-Trout Creek High School.

The Greenville, S. C. team, of the Western Carolina League will be Pole's immediate destination. He is slated to report to the Ocala, Fla., spring training camp of the Red Sox on or about March 20 next year, for a tryout with the Red Sox themselves.

McDonald reports that Pole plans to continue his education during the off season. Although terms of his contract with Boston were not disclosed, it was learned that his college education has been assured.

MANISTIQUE Recipes Make Coho Star At The Table

With the Coho season upon us, many local cooks will be scouring their cookbooks to check on the proper way to cook salmon.

Mrs. J. J. Herbert of the Post Museum received a copy of a cookbook entitled "Cooking Adventures, 1668-1968" published by Edison Sault Electric Co. in honor of Sault Ste. Marie's tri-centennial celebration. The book contains many suggestions for cooking and serving coho salmon.

Cleaning A Coho
You clean a coho as you do trout. The head is left on and you don't have to bother scaling salmon. The scales are small and fine and won't bother anyone. The most important thing about cleaning a coho is to completely remove the dark red bloodline along the backbone. This is the kidney and if it is left in will eventually spoil the taste of the firm pink meat.

Fresh Coho Steaks
The fish should be cut in pieces at least an inch thick. Season to taste with salt and pepper before baking. Bake at 350 degrees for 25-30 minutes, or until the fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. The steaks may also be broiled in an oven or cooked outside on an outdoor grill.

The standard way of cooking a coho is cleaned with the head left on. In each cheek is a muscle which is the most delectable part of the salmon. Salmon is naturally moist and doesn't necessarily need basting. It should be salted and peppered inside and out and put in an uncovered pan.

Fancy Baked Coho
14 lb. Coho in-the-round
1/4 lb. butter
Salt and pepper
Thyme
3 lemons
1 cup white wine
1 large peeled onion, quartered
Sweet Basil
3 cups white wine
1 pint sour cream
Pre-heat oven to 400 degrees. Put onion pieces in cleaned body cavity along with butter. Then sparingly dust the whole fish, inside and out, with salt, pepper, basil, and thyme. Bake in uncovered pan for about 20 minutes. Remove from oven and pour 3 cups of white wine over the fish. Cut lemons and squeeze juice all over the fish, putting the lemon rinds into the pan when finished. Return to oven for another 40 minutes baking. Place fish on heated platter and pour half the juice over it. Put remaining juice into a saucepan and add sour cream and 1 cup white wine. Mix well and heat to serving temperature over medium heat. Spoon over individual servings of baked coho.

Most cooks consider the White Fish a delicate and distinctive flavor that needs no embellishment as a coarser fish might. Most cooks bake, plank or broil it but Rene Verdon, former White House chef under Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy, submitted the following recipe as a "gourmet" item for the Sault's tri-centennial celebration:

Whitefish Pere Marquette
4 fillets of whitefish (2-3 lbs. in-the-round)
1/4 cup Julienne of mushrooms
1 small truffle cut in julienne
1/2 cup Bisque of lobster - canned
1/2 cup heavy cream
1 Tbsp. chopped parsley
2 Tbsp. butter
1/2 cup Julienne of celery
1/2 cup white wine (Chablis type)
1 Tbsp. whiskey
Melt butter in heavy saucepan; add celery and mushrooms and simmer, cover, over low heat for five minutes. Add truffles, wine, bisque, cream, and whiskey.

Place fillets side-by-side in baking dish. Pour sauce over top. Bake in moderately hot oven (400 degrees) for 20-25 minutes or until cooked and flaky. Sprinkle with chopped parsley and serve. Will serve four.

Violet Soulliere of Gulliver reported to officers on Friday that her auto was struck by a hit-and-run driver sometime on July 31. Mrs. Soulliere said she was not sure if the damage was inflicted while her auto was parked in an alley behind Cedar St. or in the Catholic church parking lot.

Fisher of Garden reported to State Police that his auto was struck by one driven by James Ralph Morrison of Rte. 3, Ensign Township, on Thursday when Morrison backed into the Fisher vehicle in Garden Township at 10 a.m. Thursday. Both parties will work out an equitable settlement and no citations were issued.

William W. Berry of Germfask was cited by State Police for failing to report a property damage accident on Saturday after he struck a four-wheel antique wagon near the Blaney Park Resort on U.S. 2. Berry's auto was found parked behind a shed in the rear of his home in Germfask after the accident.

Berry told officers he dropped a lighted cigarette on the floor of his auto and while attempting to pick up the cigarette his car crossed the roadway and struck the wagon. Berry said there were no lights on in the resort, in front of which the wagon was parked, so he continued home.

Detroit Cop Is Gun Victim

DETROIT (AP)—A gunfight that apparently began as a domestic quarrel resulted in the death of one Detroit policeman and the wounding of two others and two civilians at a low-income housing project on the city's West Side Monday.

Sgt. Edward Wolski Jr., 40, a 14-year veteran of the police force and the father of three children, was fatally wounded in the abdomen after responding to a report of a man shooting a gun in Jeffries Homes projects.

Police Commissioner Johannes Spreen said three police cars went to the housing project in response to the report. When they arrived, Spreen said, they were told the man had fled behind a building.

The officers radioed that they had the man cornered in a doorway. There was an exchange of gunfire and Wolski was injured fatally. He died about two hours later.

Homicide detectives said the gunman apparently was quarreling with his girlfriend when he pulled a gun and began shooting. The woman was not injured.

Homicide Detective Irvin Barski said that a man tentatively identified as Henry Matthews, 31, was being held in custody at Detroit General Hospital. He was reported in critical condition with a bullet wound in the head.

Trouble Not Over At Columbia, Says Student Leader

NEW YORK (AP)—A spokesman for a group of moderate students at Columbia University says changes in the university structure probably can't be brought about without further disruption.

Nigel Paneth, a member of Students for a Restructured University, told a meeting of about 250 faculty and students Monday night, "the faculty must realize that a tactic is necessary and not rely on students to risk their bodies for changes that will in the long run affect the faculty itself."

Ten speakers from nine organizations spoke at Columbia's Wollman Auditorium about their work this summer on plans to reorganize Columbia in the wake of the disruptions which shook the Ivy League school last spring.

The students who are expected to assume the most militant stance in September — members of the Strike Coordinating Committee and Students for a Democratic Society — declined to join the proceedings, though several watched from the rear of the auditorium.

Tornado Hits In Lansing; Wrecks Lumber Yard

By The Associated Press
A tornado slammed into a Lansing lumber yard only six blocks from the State Capitol Monday night as high winds and thunderstorms swept across many sections of Lower Michigan.

At least eight twisters were spotted in the Lansing area, however, no injuries were reported in that city or elsewhere in Michigan. Debris from the lumber yard was scattered over a small area.

Kent County Sheriff's deputies said a tornado knocked down a barn and a garage southeast of Grand Rapids.

Two other funnel clouds were reported in Ionia County, one at the intersection of I 96 and M 66 and another near Lake Odessa, in the southern portion of the county.

Tornado warnings were up for at least 16 counties and several other counties were alerted for severe thunderstorms.

Offer Reward To Solve Beating Of Viet Veteran

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Mayor Christian Sonneveldt has proposed a city fund to pay for information concerning the beating of a Vietnam war veteran, his wife and another couple during a civil disturbance last month.

The mayor said he would ask the city commission to set up such a fund to pay anyone giving information leading to the arrest and conviction of the assailants. Police Supt. William A. Johnson agreed with Sonneveldt's approach.

A crowd halted a car July 26 in which Lt. Col. Carl Johnson, his wife, and brother and sister-in-law were riding, broke windows and beat the two couples until police arrived. The four were released after hospital treatment.

"This is a very serious thing," said Sonneveldt. "I'm very much concerned. It's very necessary to catch them (the assailants) so others realize they can't get away with this kind of activity."

Ore Haul Record Chances Slipping

By JEAN WORTH
The threat of a steel strike—now averted—boosted iron ore shipment from the Chicago & North Western Railway's dock in Escanaba to what is believed to be the highest figure for July in the history of ore shipment here.

Paul Schilling, dock agent for the railroad, said 1,044,549 tons of natural ore and pellets were shipped over the dock in July. There's been no comparable figure since the operation here has been down to one dock in 1956 and it stands, he says, as a high figure for the more than a century that ore has moved here.

Of the total, 73 per cent was pellets, another record. In 1967 65 per cent of the total shipment here was pelletized ore.

The July shipment was 548,247 tons from the Menominee Range and 496,302 tons from the Marquette Range.

There was a great push to get the ore down the lakes when it appeared that the United Steelworkers Union, which is active in mining as well as steelmaking, might strike. With an agreement made, the steel mills have unusually heavy stocks of ore and are cutting back on shipments. This will make the rest of the year here at the ore dock much less active than the first part, unless there is some new element that calls for heavier production in the industry.

"The rest of the year is expected to be relatively slow," said Schilling, "and the industry has indicated that the slump may carry over into 1969. The way we were going we appeared to be headed for an all time record, with 533,000 tons ahead of 1967 at the end of July, but August was a good month in 1967 and it doesn't promise to be one this year. I think we'll probably be only 350,000 tons ahead of '67 at the end of August, but we should hit 6 million tons for the season."

"Our best year was 1966, ination, but does not have enough firm votes for a first ballot win. He said he thinks Nixon has lost support in recent weeks, and that it's still an open convention.

When asked if he thought a deadlock might bring him back as a serious candidate for president, Romney said such a thing "is not even remotely possible." As for any interest in the vice presidency, Romney said he hasn't decided yet.

He said he thinks either Nixon or Rockefeller will win the nomination, and he would support either one. When asked if this extended to Reagan, Romney dodged the issue as "theoretical."

Likes Platform
Monday's Michigan caucus did not deal with candidates, although some delegates think it's time for a nose-count, and to develop second ballot strategy which does not now exist—if convention voting goes beyond a first ballot.

Instead, the delegates heard a report from Sen. Robert P. Griffin and Mrs. Paul Robertson of Franklin, who served on the platform committee.

Romney said he was "basically very pleased" with the platform and was "delighted" with the planks on Vietnam and urban problems, which contained several points Romney made before the platform committee last week.

Power Issue
However, he expressed some concern about the section on economic concentration of economic power in collective bargaining so that people as consumers "can once again be the chief beneficiary of a free competitive economy."

The other would pledge the party to give states the right and power to deal with local and regional emergency strikes.

The first is a long-standing concern of Romney's, and the second is a position approved by the recent National Governors' Conference.

Romney said he would ask Tuesday's caucus to take a look at his suggestions to see how far the Michigan delegates wanted to go to "strengthen the platform in these areas."

Romney said he has made no final decision on his intentions, but that he was considering floor action to amend the platform.

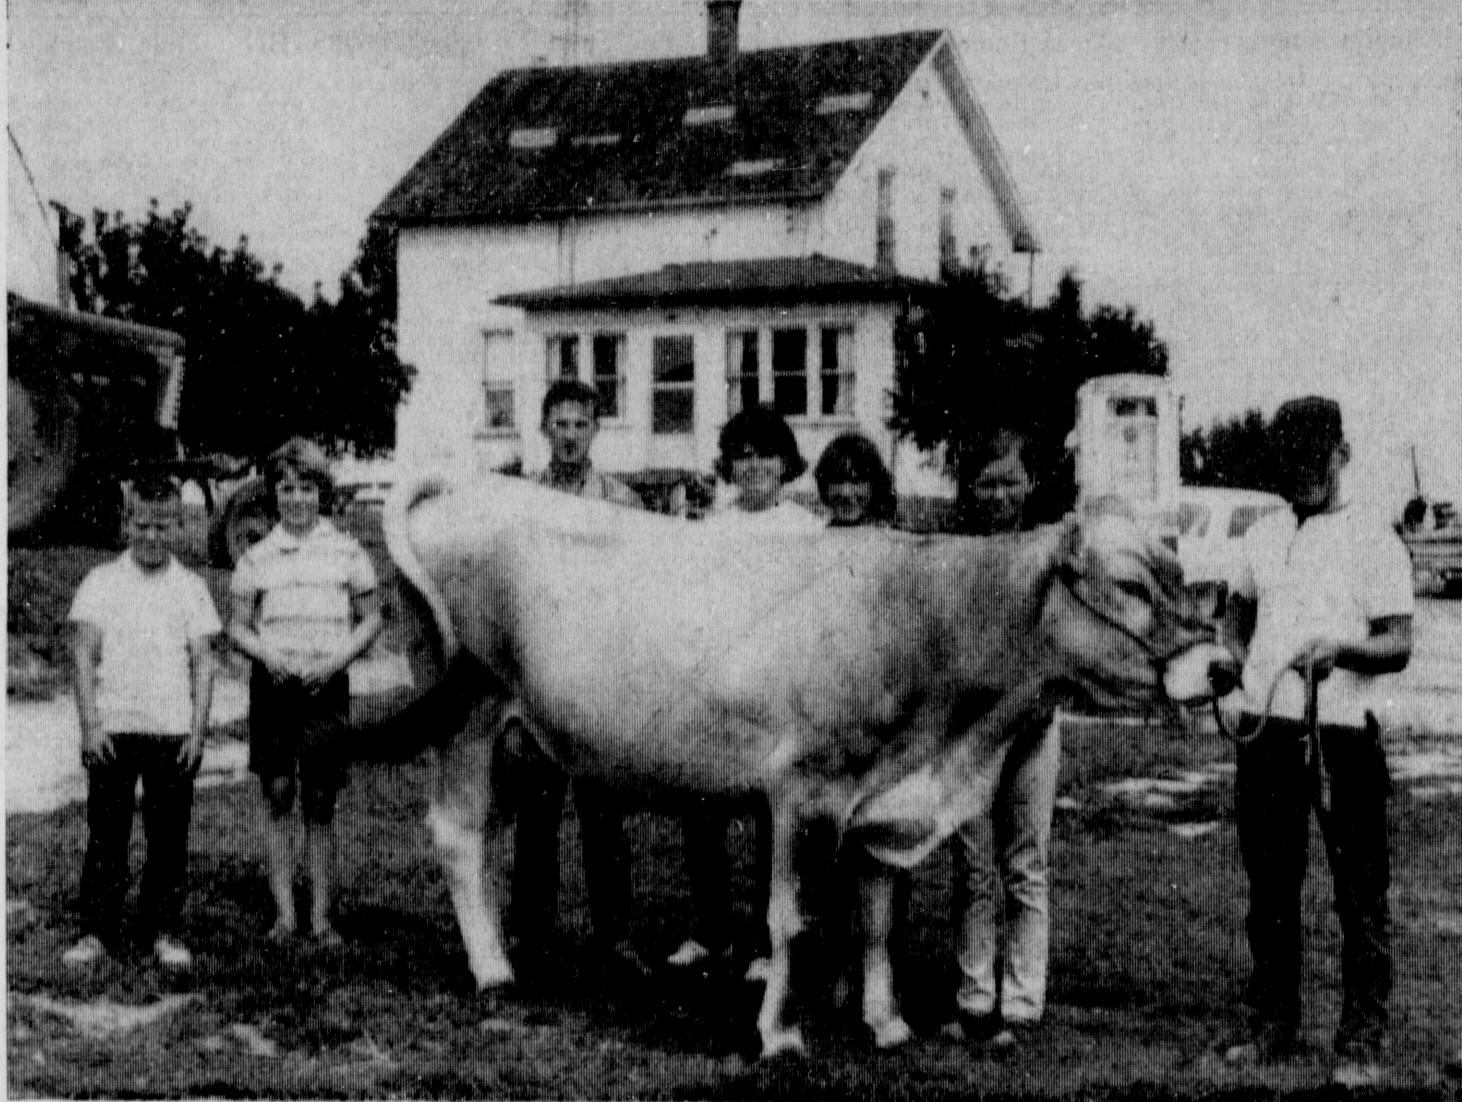

Elly Elected
Michigan delegates Monday also named new members to the Republican National Committee. Mrs. Elly Peterson of Charlotte, who is in her second term as state Republican chairman, was named to succeed Mrs. Ella Koeze of Grand Rapids.

Harold McClure of Alma, former head of the state finance committee, will succeed John B. Martin of Grand Rapids.

Neither Mrs. Koeze nor Martin sought re-election.

Mrs. Peterson has indicated she will relinquish her job as state chairman to take the national committee post.

The convention will formally ratify the delegates' choices on Wednesday, and Mrs. McClure and Mrs. Peterson will assume their new roles Jan. 1, 1969. There was no opposition to their election.

GOP Platform Offers Flexible Peace Policy

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The platform the Republican National Convention is expected to adopt tonight would put the GOP on record for a flexible policy to meet the issues of war, poverty, riots and crime—problems of main concern—to today's voters.

It is this attitude, rather than stern insistence on party principles, that contrasts sharply with the document tailored to Barry Goldwater's uncompromising and unsuccessful—campaign four years ago.

The 1968 statement, submitted to the convention by its Resolutions Committee, endorses negotiations to end the Vietnam war, while looking to a progressive takeover of the fighting by South Vietnamese forces. In 1964, the party promised to "move decisively to assure victory."

On Poverty
On poverty and urban problems, the current statement calls for a substantial role for private industry. But it does not blink at proposals for substantial use of federal funds.

It proudly claims credit for Republicans in the development of such programs as a federal interest subsidy to help the poor buy homes and federal backing of efforts to develop ghetto-owned businesses.

"We will not tolerate violence" in the cities, the 1968 platform says, and it calls for a vigorous drive under new leadership against organized crime. But it also promises "measures to alleviate and remove the frustrations that contribute to riots" and "a relentless attack on economic and social injustice."

In 1964 riots and crime were not a comparable issue and the platform had no direct reference to them.

The 1968 statement urges revision of welfare programs "to liberate the poor from the debilitating dependence which erodes self-respect." The 1964 statement emphasized first reliance on "the individual's right and capacity to advance his own economic well-being."

Spending Control
The GOP is still sounding this year its constant theme that federal spending must be brought under control. But it did not repeat the earlier flat pledge of a $5 billion spending cut, and a prompt reduction of the federal debt.

The Goldwater campaign section on foreign affairs declared the nation's leadership "must be judged by . . . the stand it takes toward communism."

The statement going to the convention this year specifies that "nations hostile to this country will receive no assistance from the United States." But it emphasizes consultation with other nations, regional approaches to defense and economic development and peaceful adjustment of disputes.

In short, the 1968 platform reflects success by candidates and party elements reaching for a middle ground where they think most voters could feel at home.

It specifically shows the effect of years of work by a group of moderate Republican House members who organized task forces to work out affirmative positions and of the Coordinating Committee that sought a broad consensus throughout the party.

Mailers Ratify Contract With Detroit Papers

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit newspaper strike officially came to an end Monday when the last striking union ratified a new contract. But the publishers of the evening News and morning Free Press found themselves with a new problem on their hands.

The International Typographical Union Mailers voted 127-34 to accept a new contract which provides a wage and fringe benefit increase of $33 dollars weekly over the $43 month term of the pact.

Detroiters have been without their regular daily newspapers for 265 days. The News has announced plans to resume publication Friday and the Free Press will start up with Saturday editions.

The new labor problem involves carrier boys, a group of whom picketed the Free Press Monday.

Ike Draws Laugh

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Former president Dwight D. Eisenhower drew a surprised laugh from Republican National Convention delegates Monday night when he declared at the end of his telephoned speech: "And one thing more—I am not a candidate."

Spy-In-The-Sky Lofted Today

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—In the first secret satellite launching here in five years, the Air Force today rocketed a new experimental spy-in-the-sky payload on a mission that could produce a vast amount of intelligence data about Russia, Red China, Southeast Asia and other potential trouble spots.

A towering Atlas-Agena rocket thundered away from Cape Kennedy at 7:08 a.m. EDT to propel the super-spy, nicknamed "Spook Bird" by some officials, toward a high-altitude orbit from which its instruments could take a comprehensive look at wide areas of the globe.

Reversing a long-time press policy, the Air Force did not inform newsmen in advance of the launching—although many knew about it. Some officials said the orders to cloak the launch in secrecy originated with the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the State Department.

Both organizations reportedly were concerned that information about the satellite would be upsetting to certain nations during a delicate period in international relations.

However, it's hard to hide something as big and as powerful as an Atlas-Agena rumbling off a launch pad. The rocket is 11 stories tall and sounds like 100 freight trains howling in unison. It was quite visible and thousands watched as it blazed across the sky.

Eight minutes after the launching, the Air Force issued a brief statement that an experimental payload had been launched, with no details.

The satellite's primary purpose reportedly was to test improved sending devices that could lead to an operational system that could pinpoint missile and other military installations and provide early warning of rocket attack.

LBJ Bodyguard Protects Nixon

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—President Johnson's personal bodyguard and constant companion in the 1964 campaign has reappeared as a Secret Service agent protecting Republican presidential contender Richard M. Nixon.

Rufus Youngblood, the agent who threw himself on top of Johnson when President Kennedy was assassinated in 1963, was seen on duty in the welcoming crush for Nixon as he arrived for the Republican National Convention.

Also among the agents was Thomas L. Johns, former head of Johnson's White House detail. Both Johns and Youngblood have been promoted to senior positions in the Secret Service.

Hemisphere Aid Frittered Away

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House committee today blamed sloppy bookkeeping and bad planning with hobbling the Alliance for Progress program of Latin American aid.

A report by the House Committee on Government Operations said there's a feeling in Brazil—and possibly a dozen other countries—that "the lid would blow off" unless land reform is swift.

Yet a shortage of auditors—and the inability of American auditors to communicate with native subordinates—is permitting Agency for International Development funds to be frittered away unnoticed, the report said.

The report was prepared after a subcommittee headed by Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., toured Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Panama, Peru and Venezuela last January.

As an example of what it said shoddy auditing can do, the committee cited a program, started in 1963, to build 1,000 classrooms, 4 normal schools, 3 supervisory centers, 10 industrial workshops and 10 medical-dental units in Piaui, northeast Brazil.

The report said that three years later the first audit of the project was made. Seventy per cent of available money had already been spent, only 18 per cent of the planned classrooms had even been started and "most of the completed schools were already in need of maintenance," the report said. None of the industrial or medical centers had been started.

The report said "... millions of dollars have been wasted on AID projects because of poor planning and faulty estimates." The U.S. has contributed $9.9 billion to the alliance as of last year.

Israeli Troops Kill Saboteurs

TEL AVIV (AP)—Israeli ground troops crossed into Jordan today for the first time in four months and killed five members of an Arab sabotage band that had slipped into southern Israel to attack a hospital, the Israeli army announced.

The army said the intruders fired a bazooka shell at a hospital clinic in the Ein Yahav settlement, near the frontier in the Negev Desert. No damage or casualties were reported.

Two other saboteurs were wounded and captured, the army said, and then led Israeli troops to two mines they had planted near the clinic.

The chase over stony waterless terrain was the first time since April 8 that Israeli ground troops crossed the border in pursuit of Arab guerrillas, the army said.

On Sunday, Israeli warplanes streaked across the Jordanian border and attacked what Israel said were two Arab guerrilla bases 15 miles from Amman, the Jordanian capital.

Jordan and Israel blamed each other for the air attack during a U.N. Security Council meeting Monday. Debate was to continue today.

Charles Edison Hurt In Florida Train Collision

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (AP)—Charles A. Edison, 78, son of the late inventor Thomas A. Edison, was hospitalized Monday for observation of possible injuries suffered in the wreck of two Seaboard Coast Line railroad trains.

Edison was one of 25 persons treated after the head-on collision two miles south of Winter Haven of two Seaboard Coast Line Silver Meteor trains. He was hospitalized overnight.

"I was going to the Republican convention at Miami," Edison said. Asked if he hadn't been a Democrat when he was elected governor of New Jersey in 1940, Edison replied: "I haven't been a Democrat for a long time."

It's 'Ike' Vs. 'HHH' In West Coast Election

OKANOGAN, Wash. (AP)—"I Like Ike" and "Vote for HHH" could fit right into the campaigns of two candidates who have filed for Okanogan County commissioner.

Ike Vallance of Brewster might have been able to use some matchbooks, pins or bumper stickers left over from former President Eisenhower's campaign. Except Vallance is a Democrat.

Herschel H. Hall might take advantage of "Vote for HHH" slogans except that he's a Republican.

Delegate Replaced

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—James S. Gilmore Jr. of Kalamazoo, Mich., was named a delegate to the Republican National Convention Monday to replace Collins L. Carter of Albion, Mich.

Carter was called home because of an illness in the family. Gilmore was an alternate delegate.
